HOUSING CO-OPS IN BC CURRENTLY ACCEPTING WAITING LIST APPLICATIONS

FOR THE MOST CURRENT INFORMATION PLEASE GO TO WWW.CHF.BC.CA JUNE 2013

This is a list of housing co-ops in British Columbia accepting applications for their waiting lists. You can get more complete and current information in the Co-op Directory on CHF BC's website at www.chf.bc.ca "find a co-op."

What is co-op housing?

A housing co-op is jointly owned by the people who live there. A co-op is not operated for profit and no one can buy or sell their unit. There is no financial gain upon leaving the co-op. You can live in the co-op so long as you meet the conditions of membership. These are set out in your occupancy agreement with the co-op.

Working together, co-op members share the responsibility of making the co-op successful. As a member, you contribute by serving on the board of directors or committees. Members manage the operation of the co-op, making decisions about goals, community guidelines and how money is spent. As a member, you have a vote at meetings where decisions are made. People may be hired to maintain or administer the co-op but the final responsibility belongs to the members.

Everyone – regardless of race, culture, religion, age or income – is eligible to live in co-op housing, provided they are willing to respect the obligations of membership. When choosing members, the co-op considers your skills and housing needs.

Co-ops can offer the safety and security of a small village while living in large cities and towns. They provide opportunities to meet new people, places for children to play and suites adapted for people with disabilities. Co-ops are mixed-income – and often family-oriented – communities.

If you join a co-op, you will be expected to:

- Buy shares in the co-op
- Pay a monthly housing charge
- Attend members' meetings
- Participate in the operation of the co-op: join a committee, run for the board, help with maintenance and/or organize social events.

Cost of co-op housing

Co-ops are mixed-income communities.

You must buy shares and sign an occupancy agreement before you move in.

When you leave the co-op, your shares are returned minus any debts or repair costs owed to the co-op. The cost of a share is decided by each co-op; usually interest is not paid on shares. The monthly housing charge is based on the total cost of operating the co-op.

If your income is low, you may be eligible for a subsidized unit.

Based on the information you provide, the co-op will determine whether you qualify for subsidy. Not all co-ops have subsidy available. Housing charges may change based on the financial needs of the co-op.

How to apply

Most co-ops have long waiting lists, often up to three years if you require subsidy. The wait can be shorter for unsubsidized units.

You must apply to each co-op individually (CHF BC does not accept or forward co-op applications). Either download an application form (if there is one online) or write a short letter to each co-op that interests you requesting an application form. Include a self-addressed, stamped envelope. When you receive the application form, fill it out completely and return it to the co-op.

Keep your application up-to-date. Let the co-op know if your contact info, household size, or income changes.

When you qualify for an opening the co-op will contact you and arrange an interview. The interview gives you a chance to learn about the co-op and find out what is expected of members. You may also be able to view a unit at this time.

For co-ops wishing to change a listing

Member housing co-ops can change a co-op listing by phone, mail, fax, or by email members@chf.bc.ca. These listings are a free service to the member co-ops of CHF BC.

Heron Court Co-op

One 3 bedroom townhome unit available May 1, 2013. Our co-op was incorporated in 1987. We are a townhouse style complex comprised of 40 living units in 6 buildings. Close to elementary & high schools, community centres, a library and a short walk away from Richmond's dyke trails along the Fraser, we are close to both amenities and nature. Our vision for Heron Court Housing Co-op is to foster a community that is built on cooperation, self-governance and member involvement. We are welcoming and respectful of everyone and encourage community spirit through social events and good neighbour practices. Heron Court is pet-friendly with a limit of one small indoor dog or cat with a maximum of one pet per unit. Two of our units have been designed for people with disabilities. There is a central common room, laundry room with coin-operated machines and an administrative office. The laundry room is open 24 hours to all members; however each individual unit does come with a washer and dryer hook-up on the 2nd floor. All units have a single car carport and a second designated parking stall. We have units of various sizes to suit the size of your family, your income, and your needs. For application, please send us a self-addressed stamped envelope (SASE) to Membership Committee or call 604-244-3985.
